VOL. 14, NUMBER 97 MONESSEN, PA, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 5 1915 SIX CENTS THE WEEK

The fall season is here. This country has arranged to loan $500,000,000 to Great Britain and France. Are you still croaking hard times? Maybe a little judgment and business push would help you.

Rejected, Then Drew Gun And Spilled Blood

In a fit of jealous rage, Sam Celoger shot and perhaps fatally wounded Miss Elizabeth Farro in the rear of her home at 1276 Schoonmaker avenue last evening. The shooting was witnessed by several persons and Officer Menefee, who happened to be passing at the time, heard the shots and rushed to the scene just in time to wrest the revolver from Celoger's hands before he could turn the weapon on himself. The intended victim was taken to her home and is in a serious condition with three bullet wounds in her body, while her assailant is lodged in the borough bastile, to await the outcome of Miss Farro's injuries.

Sam Celoger, who is 30 years of age, is a resident or Cleveland, O., and on September 28 received an honorable discharge from the United States army at Fort Sill, Oklahoma. He had only been with the army a short time, having purchased his discharge. He was a member of the carnival band appearing here last summer, and during the stay of the company here, became acquainted with Miss Farro, a pretty 16 year old miss. His friendship grew into love and frequent letters passed between the two since their first meeting.

Finally according to Celoger, they became engaged, and he purchased a diamond ring and a watch bracelet for his bride-to-be. Securing his discharge, he came here Saturday to make final arrangements for the wedding.

Upon his arrival here, however, he found that the girl's love had grown cold and she refused to marry him. Last evening about 8 o'clock he came to have a final talk with her and again she refused him. He drew a 32 calibre revolver from his pocket and shot at the girl four times. One shot entered her cheek, coming out the other side of her mouth, another entered the fleshy part of her back and came out near her neck, the third bullet struck her in the back of the head and evidently hit a hairpin as it was recovered with the marks of the hair pin on it, the fourth bullet went wild.

A witness to the shooting grappled with the man and with the arrival of Officer Menefee, they unarmed the man who was intent on ending his own life.

The girl was taken to her home and is in a serious condition. Celoger was brought to the lockup and was given a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Watkins this morning. He was held on a charge of felonious shooting with intent to kill, but will not be taken to jail until the exact condition of his victim is ascertained.

To Leave This Week

Rev. B. F. Bungard, pastor of the United Brethren church expects to leave the latter part of this week to take his new charge at Herminie. Rev. Bungard, besides being an able preacher of the gospel, has always taken an active interest in matters pertaining to the civic betterment of the town, and his departure will be regretted by his numerous friends here.

Rev. Bungard will undoubtedly miss the friendship of his congregation and other acquaintances in this city, but in his new field, in the country away from smoke and dirt, he will find a territory more suitable for his family. He will have a much larger parsonage than in this city and will receive a nice increase in salary.

Fire At Charleroi

Fire this morning of an unknown origin, destroyed the entire millinery stock of Mrs. William Evans of Charleroi, and badly damaged the building, a large brick structure.

The first alarm was sent in at 2 o'clock and tha fire department responded and succeeded in extinguishing the flames, but not until after the contents of the building had been practically destroyed and much damage done to the building. At five o'clock another alarm was turned in, the fire having broken out again.

It is estimated that the loss will approximate $5,000, and the loss is only partly covered by insurance. The cause of the fire is entirely unknown.

Attempts Jail Delivery

A bold attempt to bring about a general jail delivery at the county prison was frustrated in the nick of time the other day by Warden John B. Nicholls. Had the plan, just on the eve of completion, been carried out, Harry E. Filler, the condemned murderer, Earnest Reaping, whose death sentence was lately commuted to life imprisonment and James Beighley, charged with shooting his father and brother, and many other prisoners would have doubtless slipped away. The attempt at the wholesale delivery has been a secret by Warden Nicholls, District Attorney Eicher and others for the purpose of detecting, if possible, the person, who under cover, secretely passed into the prison the saws through which it was expected by the prisoners to effect their escape. While the identity of the person who provided the instruments by which the heavy iron bars were severed has not yet been discovered, the individuals who used the saws with surprising effect is known to the warden of the prison.

It was on Thursday evening of last week that one of the prisoners, a man whose trial offense would not warrant a long confinement in the prison, sumoned the warden and told him that he knew something of importance to communicate to him. The prisoner was taken to a quiet corner of the building, and there the whole story of the attempt at the general delivery was unfolded. The prisoner told the warden that for several days, James Miller, accused and being held in jail for the larceny of an automobile in the northern end of the county, had been engaged for several nights in sawing the bars in his cell in the north tier of the eastern section of the jail.

Acting immediately upon the pointer given, the warden called his assistants and an investigation was instituted. In the cell of Miller, the jail authorities found that almost a full square of the iron bars had been sawed, that the crevices had been filled with soap, barely holding them together. All the force that would be required to release the bars would be a gentle touch of the hand.

Inspect Roads

Governor Martin G. Brumbaugh and his automobile party passed through this county today on an alleged road inspecting tour. The roads had been put in good shape by the state highway department in advance of the coming of the party. The rain of last night interfered very little with the plans, and the schedule as arranged, was carried out. The party took lunch at Greensburg at the Rappe hotel and Fisher house, leaving there shortly after the noon hour, coming through West Newton, Rostraver township and Belle Vernon and on to Charleroi.

No stop was made in Charleroi, the party just passing through the town and on to Washington, where the Governor made a speech from the W. & J. college steps, standing on the same stone where once stood that eminent statesman and much loved man, James G. Blaine.

The party refused a request to change their itinerary and pass through Monessen, and in return Monessen made no effort to swell the number of machines that lined up in other towns, and in so far as local people are concerned, the dignity and majesty of the state passed through this section unobserved.

From Washington the party will pass on to Pittsburgh where temporary headquarters will be established at the Fort Pitt hotel.

Later—A message was received at 2 p. m. that this end of the trip was cut out owing to bad weather and the party went from Greensburg to Pittsburgh.

—Beginning Saturday we will have a special sale on vases, fern dishes and jardineres. For one week only. —Crall's Flower Shop. 94-2t MWS5t

Brothers Visit Here

W. J. and W. S. Merritt and Mrs. G. A. Cratty of this city were somewhat surprised Saturday afternoon when Calvin and Charles Merritt, two brothers, whom they had not seen for twelve years arrived here The two men left McKeesport about twelve years ago and located on a ranch in South Dakota. They have never had occasion to come east until a short time ago, when representatives of the French government visited their ranch and purchased a number of their horses.

They were compelled to come east with the shipment of horses, and after delivering the consignment at the eastern coast, they returned here. Eight car loads of horses were brought east by the two men and out of the entire lot, only two were lost.

Some difficulty was encountered in bringing the horses through Chicago, owing to interference by opponents of the French government, and it was necessary to take the shipment by the way of Canada. The French government is purchasing all horses available in the west, paying on an average of $100 a head for the animals.

Dangerous Habit

Licking a postage stamp may be the first step toward a tuberculosis camp, and chewing a pencil that somebody else may have used, in a like manner, has all the possibilities of an early funeral for the chewer. These are conclusions to be drawn from the current week's health talk by Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, State Health Commissioner.

"Every youngster is familiar with the study of how a tea kettle suggested the steam engine," says Dr. Dixon. "It is one of thousands of examples of little things that count. Of course the tendency is to sneer at their importance.

"Millions of people moisten postage stamps with their tongues every day. These may have been shoved across a soiled counter or torn off with a dirty hand an instant before, but unfortunately a habit, plus convenience, leads the majority of people to the custom of affixing them in this manner. In view of the fact that there are thousands of sufferers from tuberculosis and other diseases, these things, seemingly insignificant acts, are really fraught with danger.

"Children in school chew their pencils and as often as not exchange them unless warned against it and chew someone else's. Many people wet their fingers with their tongues to turn the pages of books, and despite all that has been said and written by health authorities about paper money carrying disease germs, they resort to this method of counting bills.

Fifth Anniversary Of Philadelphia Candy Kitchen

The Philadelphia Candy Kitchen, recognized as the home of purity in the manufacture of candy and ice cream, will on Saturday of this week celebrate its fifth anniversary. Special arrangements have been made for the day, and old and new patrons and friends of this establishment are invited to attend and take part in the celebration. Hundreds of pounds of candy will be manufactured for the occasion and in the ice cream parlor seven different kinds of ice cream and sherbets will be served. There will be something special for every visitor, whether man, woman or child, and the management has made arrangements to take care of the largest crowd of the season.

The Philadelphia Candy Kitchen is one of the most progressive establishments in the city and under the personal management of Milton Mirandy, has made rapid steps to the front and during the years they have been in business here, have spent $6,500 in improvements to their store room. It is one of the leading establishments of its kind in Western Pennsylvania, and both the interior and exterior present a pleasing appearance to the patrons.

Milton Mirandy, the proprietor, arrived in this country from Greese in 1906, and spent some time at Philadelphia, after which he left for South Bend, Ind., to enter the candy manufacturing business with relatives. Five years later he came to this city and purchased the store room in which he is now located.

Starting on a small scale, but filled with confidence, he rapidly built up a good trade, and is now recognized as a leader in the manufacture of ice cream and candy. He has always tried to keep a little ahead of the times and each year found new improvemnets to his establishment. With "purity first" as his standard and by successful advertising campaigns, he brought the public to understand that home made products were the purest and now he enjoys the friendship and patronage of all lovers of pure home made sweets and sanitary ice cream.

Mr. Mirandy of Greek parentage, has taken out final papers for citizenship in this country, and takes great pride in boosting Monessen. He has the greatest confidence in the future of the city and promises that the Philadelphia Candy Kitchen will always be to the front with the very best in ice cream and candy. Again he invites all to visit the establishment Saturday and share in the benefits to be derived from this anniversary celebration. Come in, you will be made welcome, whether you purchase or not.

The Kettle and Pot

The McKeesport Times is highly elated over the defeat of Denny O'Neil for the Republican nomination for county commissioner of Allegheny county. O'Neil is connected with the McKeesport News, and the papers are issued in a competitive field. The Times charges O'Neil with insincerity. He was converted to Christianity during the Sunday revival in McKeesport and cast aside his liquor alliances. O'Neil had been in politics prior to the Sunday revival, but in declaring himself forever free from liquor domination and association, he threw his hat into another ring. In other words O'Neil "scoched" the snake, but did not kill it. Had he retired from politics when he felt that his sins had been washed, there would never have been a doubt about the sincerity of his conversion. But he didn't do that. He felt that he could win without liquor support and he preferred to take the criticism rather than longer associate with politics controlled by booze.

Any man has a right to changs his methods of living He has a perfect right to turn from the paths of sin and walk in the footsteps of the Master, but he must be strong enough and sincere enough to withstand the jeers of the scoffers. The issue now is not what O'Neil was before his conversion, but is he living a sincere and conscientious life since? If he is, he is a man despite all the criticism that can be heaped upon him. There is one thing that stands out to condemn the sincerity of his political record and that is the fact that he denounced the Republican party last year, and this year embraced it, with all its sins and frailties, in an effort to get back into office. How much sincerity can you credit a man with in the face of such a history?

But let us look at the case of the Times a little. What is sauce for the goose should also be sauce for the gander. The Times caught the spirit of the Sunday revival. It reported the meetings verbatum, it worshipped Sunday with the same spirit as did O'Neil and it, too, denounced the liquor contingent in as emphatic and forceful terms as did O'Neil. It undertook to clean up old McKeesport and declared that it would never again accept a liquor advertisement, but in less than a year it issued a seventh day edition containing column after column of whiskey ads. Why then should the kittle call the pot black? Should O'Neil be the subject of ridicule and carping from a source no less sincere? We have no brief for the hypocrite in the church or out of the church. If a man demands that his neighbor he clean, he should first be clean, and we hope that O'Neil will be big enough and brave enough and strong enough to show to the world that he is consistent.

Ford Cares Little

Henry Ford doesn't seem to care very much whether those Canadians continue their boycott or drop it. Ford claims that he is opposed to the European loan because it is inconsistent with neutrality. He claims it is not in harmony with Wilson's neutral policies and when asked to explain, Ford doesn't explain.

The boycott has never gotten very far along in educational lines. It hasn't been a very successful school of learning and hence it hasn't converted people to higher thought and saner reason. Ford doesn't need to care a rap about the Canadian or any other boycott. Hardly a successful enterprise can be found that hasn't withstood the elements of a boycott.

Ford is a producer. He produces something the world needs. He is a part of the age. He has advanced civilization. While some contend that he has made walking a pleasure, it is also conceded that he has removed riding from luxury, and if Canada should refuse to buy a single Ford car, not a wheel in the great Ford factory would have to stop. Let the knockers knock. Hen, and you just keep on smiling and selling cars.

A newspaper secured expressions from some 15 governors of Democratic states as to their preferences for the presidential candidate on the Democratic ticket. All save one were for Woodrow Wilson, first, last and all the time. The one exception declared himself for Harmon. Neither Champ Clark nor W. J. Bryan received even "honorable mention." Expressions from eight Republican governors showed almost an equal number of favorites for the G. O. P. nomination. It was significant that the Republicans practically all admitted that Wilson "might" be re-elected unless the Republicans and Progressives could agree upon a candidate. This would seem to indicate that Ringmaster Theodore Roosevelt is once more in a position to make the poor elephant jump through the hoop.

ODD BITS OF NEWS

Hailey, Id.—Unable to speak and tell how the accident happened, Miss Lucille Guita, 17 years old, is recovering from an operation required for the removal of a fork which she swallowed It is believed she was examining her throat with the fork when it slipped from her hand.

Oilton, Okla.—Mrs. T. Hanner of this place, belives she is the only woman in the country who conducts a pool hall. She says under the conduct of women, such places should become clean, high standard places of amusement.

Anahuac, Tex.—Mrs. Fritz Otter arose in the night to raise a window. Something like a snaks, touched her neck. When she aroused other members of the family, they found the snake coiled comfortably around her neck.

Los Angeles, Cal.—Girls, have you caught on to the new fads? One is a peace ring, made of silver with a dove and an olive branch enameled on it. The other is a "sweetheart" ring, in which the face of the girl's best beau is worn.

Vandalia, Ill.—Six hours after she had been pronounced read by thefamily physician, Mrs. Lydia Adams, 70 years old, arose, walked into an adjoining room and greeted the mourners.

Plainfield, Ill.—An ingenious farmer attached a rubber hose to the exhaust of his automobile,drove through his fields and inserted the hose into every gopher hole he found. Every gopher was killed. The farmer then inserted the hose into rat holes, turned on his engine and the rodents have disappeared.

Jersey Shore, Pa.—Jane Reachard, 19 years old, was taken with a fit of laughing while listening to a funny story told by a friend. She laughed for three hours and it was necessary to put her under the care of a physician.

If the reader has a "bad back" or any kidney ills and is looking for an effective kidney medicine, better depend on the remedy endorsd by people you know. Doan's Kidney Pills have given great satisfaction in such cases Monessen citizens testify to this Here is a case of it:

H. R Wilbur, 131 McKee avenue, Monessen, says: "I contracted a heavy cold which affected my kidneys. My back was sore and lame all the time and I had to have help to turn in bed. My whole body was like a board. I often had to have someone help dress me Shooting pains darted through my body and I couldn't do my work My body became bloated. The secretions were profuse in passage and contained sediment. I had dizzy spells and hot flashes, and I was miserable in every way. I doctored for years but didn't improve. The first box of Doan's Kidney Pills relieved me and two boxes practically cured me. Now and then I take Doan's Kidney Pills as a tonic, and give them credit for keeping me well."

A Mythical Lover

By MARTHA V. MONROE

My dear, you being my most intimate friend, I write you first of all to announce my engagement Harry after hanging about me for two years has at last proposed. How much longer he would have continued to do so had I not by my own skillful manipulation brought him to terms I don't know. As it is, I had a hard time landing him and did so only after a number of efforts had failed.

Now, I wish to assure you, my dear, that if you have occasion to bring a man to terms, do not adopt any of the old fashioned methods that are well known—that is, if you are playing a man who is as adept at the game as you I tried a number of them on Harry, and he was too smart for them all. First I told him that I was intending to study the law and would make a vow of celibacy that I might be wedded only to my professional work. He laughed me to scorn, drew ironical pictures of my arguing a case before a jury; said he would like to be the judge before whom I pleaded a case, and all that.

About the time of this first failure the European war broke out, and I threatened to go abroad and take care of sick and wounded soldiers. He said he was thinking of going to France and enlisting in the Foreign legion I didn't go as a nurse, and he didn't go as a soldier. He had met my bluff with one of his own.

Then Howard Wentworth came to town, and of all the girls here he seemed to prefer me. Taking advantage of his preference, I encouraged him, especially in presence of Harry What did the scamp do but devote himself to Agnes Woodruff. I was frightened for fear she would get him away from me and dropped Mr Wentworth immediately. After I had done so Harry gradually ceased to pay marked attention to Agnes, but I knew that he was still more or less devoted to her, and it worried me.

Having heard that Aunt Caroline had been in her youth skillful at the game of hearts, I confessed my failures and my anxiety to her and asked her to help me.

"The trouble with your expedients," she said to me, "is that they are too palpable. One of those you have tried is excellent, but you did not apply it in the right way. I refer to your attempt to pique your lover by accepting the attentions of another man You should not have called in the attentions of a real admirer, but an imaginary one."

Not understanding what Aunt Carrie meant, I asked her to explain She did so and gave me the identical method by which she brought Uncle John to terms twenty years ago. I made up my mind to try it.

My first move was to nerve myself to treat Harry with indifference for a stated period. This being a part of a general plan, I was enabled to play the part pretty well I was careful not to overact it, in order that he might not see through what I was up to Having apparently grown more indifferent to him for three or four months, I accepted an invitation from Elinor Trask to make her a visit. I remained away six weeks, and when I came home I talked a great deal to my intimate girl friends about a fascinating fellow I had met, or, rather had not met, during my visit, giving them the impression that I had been much taken up with him. Of course they spread a report that I was either engaged or was likely to be engaged, and it reached Harry's ears.

Nevertheless so confident was he that he could drop me and take me up when he pleased that he placed but little confidence in my preference for him having been diverted to another channel. He came to see me on my return from my visit, twitted me on having lost my heart during my absence and asked for a description of this "Adonis," as he called my mythical lover, who had been so fortunate as to win such a prize as myself. I turned the conversation upon other topics. Harry asked me to go to the theater with him the next evening I told him so decidedly that I had a previous engagement that he did not ask for another evening.

Harry did not call again for some time. Meanwhile I was talking to my chums about the fascinating man I had met, confident that what I said would reach the man I really loved. The next time he called on me I telephoned to a florist, with whom I had left an order for flowers to be filled on call, to send them at once. Half an hour later the flowers came and were brought into the room to me where I was sitting with Harry. Pretending to be anxious about them, I opened the box containing them Inside was a little envelope. I seized it and without opening it held it in the palm of my hand.

This was altogether too much for Harry's equanimity. He demanded to see the card of the sender, and I refused to give it to him. He turned very red, then pale, and I saw that an emotional storm was raging within him. I let him go on till he had committed himself, after which he lost all interest as to who sent the flowers, for we were engaged

I assure you, my dear, I am very happy, and Harry says he is very happy, and, as for my mythical lover, I think it is perfectly honorable for me to have used him, for he can't be a bit disappointed.

HARRISBURG MAN IS NOW HAPPY

I. E. Beckwith Says Wonderful Remedy Gave Him Great Help.

I. E. Beckwith of Harrisburg, Penn., was a victim of disorders of the stomach and intestinal tract. He tried treatment after treatment. Nothing gave him relief.

Then one day he discovered Mayr's Wonderful Remedy—and soon was happy.

Mr. Beckwith wrote to Geo. H. Mayr, the maker of the remedy and for twenty years the leading druggist of Chicago.

"I believe that Mayr's Wonderful Remedy is the greatest stomach remedy on earth. One dose would convince any one who is troubled with his stomach of its wonderful merits. It removed some of the most awful looking stuff from my stomach. I have taken other remedies, but they never helped me."

Mayr's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating, pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart Get one bottle of your druggist now and try it on an absolute guarantee—if not satisfactory money will be returned.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Go Where the Crowd Goes

The Glad Hand.

We are not isolated units in this universe of ours. We are all of us members of a great world community. All of us are so constituted that our welfare and our happiness depend on the maintenance of good will with others.

To a great extent, however, we always have it in our power to determine just what the attitude of others toward us shall be

We have this power by virtue of the fact that the human mind tends to be swayed in its critical judgments by the character of the emotional moods experienced People usually think exactly as they feel.

Hence the value of the glad hand.

The cordial greeting, the cheery smile, the display of genuine interest—all these help to create pleasurable moods in other persons, and consequently prepossess them in our favor.

Whereas the cold, indifferent approach, the flabby handshake and the languid air arouse feelings of antagonism, if not of suspicion and aversion —H Addington Bruce in Kansas City Star

Perfect Pitch.

A fairly large number of people are gifted with a good ear for music, and their friends think it quite wonderful that they are able to play or whistle tunes which they have heard only once

But this gift, however remarkable it may seem, is by no means extraordinary or exceptional, especially when compared with the possession of what is called an "ear of absolute pitch" This means that the person possessing it is able to stand away from the piano and tell you what note you are playing or in what key One well known lady pianist is able to read over the score of a piece of music in the train or omnibus, leave the book behind her and yet play the whole piece through by memory when she reaches home.

Perfect pitch is a gift to some people, but it can be acquired. Indeed, many authorities say that to be a really great musician this power must be possessed —London Answers

Signatures and Signs.

Walter Crane's signature—a crane impaled on a W—reminds us that other English artists have adopted queer "beasties" to form their signature There was Richard Doyle, for instance, who among his friends and in his signature pretended only to be "Dicky," for you will find in the corner of many of his Punch drawings a "D" with a very perky looking bird standing thereon. But Whistler's was the most famous, though somewhat incongruous His sign manual often took the shape of a butterfly, though a wasp would have expressed him better, for he was not only an artist, but the author of "The Gentle Art of Making Enemies." And there are many who cherish envelopes from Professor Blackie with the Greek scrawl meaning "Tell the truth in love."—London Spectator.

A Land Without Flies.

It should be refreshing and a bit encouraging to the fatigued, hopeless fly fighters to know that there is in the world a country in which there are no flies. The place is the British West Indies. This interesting fact—that there are no flies in British West Indies—starts up a number of questions and curious conjectures. Why is it that they have no flies? Is it that they have lost the seed, or is it that they have some active parasite or animal that feeds on flies, like the South American ant eater, for instance? Certainly it is not that they have no filth They have heat and moisture, and, if rumor has it true, they have all the filth that is necessary. That these three conditions can exist without any flies is what we do not understand —North Carolina Health Board Report.

Parliamentary Frontiers.

On either side of the commons chamber Great Britain's parliament house there is a distinct line along the floor, and any member who when speaking steps outside the line on his side is liable to be called to order. These lines are supposed to be scientific frontiers, and the neutral zone between is beyond the length of a sword thrust, and, although members no longer wear swords, except those who are selected to move and second addresses to the throne on certain occasions, the old precaution still lingers on —Westminster Gazette.

Still In Doubt.

"Why don't you marry, old chap?"

"Do you think a man could procure all the necessaries of life on $1,200 a year?"

"Of course, but not the luxuries"

"Well, I haven't decided yet whether a wife is a necessity or a luxury."—Boston Transcript

Pigeon English.

The expression "pigeon English" arose from the Chinese attempt to pronounce the word "business," which through various forms became "pidgin" and then "pigeon." "Pigeon English" is a strange jargon of many languages but "business" is carried on by it.

Described.

"What kind of a guy is Jiggs?"

"Oh, he's the type that says, 'Lend me a couple of dollars for a couple of hours,' and then he loses his watch." —Buffalo Express

He Blundered.

FIREMEN'S CONVENTION

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 5—A race for the presidency of the Firemen's Association of Pennsylvania developed into a fight of great bitterness scon after the association opened its thirty-sixth annual convention here yesterday. Judge Eugent C. Bonniwell of Philadelphia, and George S. Weir of Sharpsburg, are the opposing candidates, and although the convention is being held here, is confidently predicted that Weir will be the next president.

Word has been slipped quietly among the Philadelphia delegates, it is said to cut Judge Bonniwell and vote for Weir. As there are approximately 75 Philadlphia delegates, it is said that these votes will be an important factor in the balloting for Weir.

Charges that Judge Bonniwell played politics in an effort to be elected president were made today at the convention headquarters, Scottish Rite Hall, by Battalion Chief Nallinger and by Capt. Abraham L. Lacy, chairman of the Philadelphia committee.

Although the Philadlphia firemen are making every effort to make the visitors feel at home, officials of the fire department did not want the convention to be held here and the choice of this city was unpopular among the local firemen.

The holding of the convention here, it is said, will mean a loss of from $75,000 to $100,000 to the firemen's pension fund. For the last few days there has been an annual deficit of $30,000 in the fund, and it was planned to hold a big fete here this fall in Convention hall. It was estimated that $100,000 could be made for the pension fund in this way. Now that the convention, with the attendant festivities is being held here, it is said such a fete is out of the question.

Violent Deaths

Three members of the family of John Martin of McClellandtown, near Uniontown, have met violent deaths within five weeks. The first, John Martin, aged 55, was killed in a runaway five weeks ago. Then the daughter, Mrs. Charles Bribacker, aged 28, was killed when an automobile in which she was riding, overturned near Republic. Yesterday a son, Robert Martin, aged 25, was killed while working at the Puritan Coke Works. He was dashed 50 feet to the ground by the collapse of the trestle. The accident tied up the entire plant and 200 men will be idle until the trestle is repaired.

A MEDICINE OF MERIT

A proprietary medicine, like everything else that comes before the public, has to prove its merits. The law of the survival of the fittest applies in this field as in others. The reason for the tremendous success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is because it has been fulfilling a real human need for forty years, so that today thousands of American women owe their health and happiness to the marvelous power of this famous medicine, made from roots and herbs—nature's remedy for woman's ills.

Independents Defeated

The Independents lost their first nine pin game of the season on the Colonial alleys last evening to the Merchants team. The three games were interesting despite the fact that the Indpendents could not get used to the new shelac. They expect to turn the tables on next Monday. Following the game, the players of both teams enjoyed an oyster supper at the Keystone lunch room. Following is the box score:

Held Inquest

An inquest into the killing of Gaspieri Bruno, aged 21 years of Monessen, was conducted last night at 7:30 o'clock at the undertaking rooms of Lawrence B. Frye on Fallowfield avenue, Charleroi, by Coroner James T. Heffran. Bruno was shot to death at Monessen last Thursday morning by Pietro Tammuorello, who escaped and who has not as yet been caught.

The jury drawn to hear the evidence in the inquest is composed of Lute Robertson, L. R. Walters, Harry Perry, Paul Gibson, William Lambert and Bruce Barnett.

The state police are still on the trail of Tammurello, but report no good clues that may lead to his arrest. In what direction he went or where he has hidden after the deed of last Thursday in the heart of the business section of Monessen, remains a mystery. Some hold to the theory that he may have escaped to Charleroi and is still in hiding.

The jury returned a verdict to the effect that the killing was done by Pietro Tammurello and that the case be returned to Westmoreland county for any action necessary.

The Imperial Orchestra

Under this name, Arthur J. Pancook has assembled a number of the best musicians of this district. Mr. Pancook will give his personal attention to the booking of dates for dances, weddings, concerts, or any other social affairs, and he wishes to assure the public that his orchestra will furnish nothing but high class and up-to-date music at all times.

The Imperial orchestra, which was formerly known as Pancook's orchestra is composed of the following well known musicians:

Robert McGowan—Piano.
